Early Beginnings in the 20th Century

The roots of comics postcards can be traced back to the early 1900s, coinciding with the rise of comic strips in newspapers and magazines. During this period, postcards served as affordable, portable mediums for sharing images and messages. Publishers quickly recognized the appeal of featuring popular comic characters on postcards to attract buyers, resulting in the first series of comic-themed postcards appearing in the 1910s and 1920s. These early postcards often depicted humorous scenes from daily life or caricatures of public figures, infused with the comic art style emerging at the time.

The Golden Age of Comics Postcards

The 1930s and 1940s are considered the golden age of comic postcards. During this period, superhero comics gained immense popularity, and publishers like DC Comics and Marvel (then Timely Comics) introduced characters such as Superman, Batman, and Captain America. Postcards featuring these heroes became highly sought after. They often showcased dynamic action scenes, memorable catchphrases, and vibrant artwork that captured the spirit of the era. These postcards not only served as promotional material but also as collectibles for fans eager to own images of their favorite characters.
